

I understand that LPFM stations could soon take priority over current FM translator service. I get to listen to both KLOVE and AIR-1 via translator, and I often see stickers on co-commuters' vehicles indicating that they do, too. KLOVE is important to the community through me (us) because it encourages good relationships, spiritual growth, and charitability. Besides its regular listeners, KLOVE reaches people who happen upon it by "accident," and get to hear just what they need at that moment. It would therefore NOT be in the public's best interest for this listening option/opportunity to be forced off the air. Though I don't know anything about the other radio stations, I can venture the hope that some viable compromise is available; but as for myself, I want KLOVE and AIR-1 to stay put!
